ABSTRACT

The goal of study is to present not only the meaning of the text but also the conception, imagination, and interpretation of sequences that will produce the sign of motives in the story. The research methodology is done by literary research. This analysis process uses the literary theory. The theory used in this research is structuralism approach. The approach itself is to look at the structure that builds up the story. Through the structure, every aspect of human's life is made up from the elements of life which relate to each other and create the result in a system in some ways and same rules. It can be concluded that people will be aware of making a decision when they consider the cause and effect after they take the next step in their life.
