ABSTRACT

Human beings as social person cannot live without other supports. They need many things to complete their life. But if people's life is far away from those supports it can make their behavior or attitude change. This thesis analyzes about someone's behavior change because of loss of supports. The supports are physiological needs, safety needs, belonging and love needs, esteem needs, self-actualization, experience, feeling loneliness. He has to struggle to stay alive at the isolated island without others. By analyzing the film Cast Away, people can be seen as weak creature, who that needs many factors to support their life. They have to try to get all those needs to fulfill their life. These events need diligence and patient from the main character to pass all problems.